CR 1. ICSC SPRING CONVENTION REPORT

The Economic Development Director stated that on May 19 – 21, 2008, representatives from the City of Lancaster attended the annual International Council of Shopping Centers (“ICSC”) Spring Convention in Las Vegas, NV. (In attendance were Council Member Ed Sileo, Council Member Ken Mann, Mark Bozigian, Brian Ludicke, Vern Lawson and Kelvin Tainatongo.) The convention allows City representatives to meet with many retailers and their developers under one roof to promote retail opportunities in our community. In spite of the predicted national recession which has substantially curtailed residential expansion and the record setting gas prices which have negatively impacted discretionary spending, the City was able to position the City of Lancaster as a business friendly city with a positive future poised for retail expansion.

The ICSC Spring Convention is one venue where a city can make a significant impact on retail development for its community. It is considered the largest gathering of retail real estate professions. Over 50,000 industry professionals attend the convention including shopping center developers (42%) and retailers (32%). ICSC estimates that nearly 50% of retail leases are signed or conceived during the Convention.

The retail strategy is to aggressively market City and Agency owned commercial properties for sale or lease to retailers and restaurant operators. We have done this successfully with the Fresco II Restaurant and auto dealer expansions for Toyota and Honda. More importantly, we must develop strong relationships with our partners in the retail development and commercial brokerage communities. It is this group that we must defer to for their direct relationships with the retail and restaurant owners.

In this instance, the City must be proactive in promoting the benefits of the trade area, showcasing available retail sites, connecting landlords and brokers with the prospective retailers, and showing strong commitment to facilitating development entitlements. Retailers need to be able to depend on our representations that we can deliver a site by their scheduled openings.

Council Member Sileo – stated that the convention is ground zero of shopping center research and tenants; staff did an excellent job of arranging meetings with potential tenants; information was presented with a mix of staff and elected official help; excellent presentations; this put the City at a great advantage.

Council Member Mann – stated that he split up with Council Member Sileo and divided in to two teams; it was interesting to hear different takes on the signage issues; clear conversations; reviewed both days – seeking out and looking at retail and restaurant chains; staff did a great job; came away impressed; we are in a down market; foreclosures; it was a breath of fresh air to see retailers and restaurant chains complementing Lancaster for what we are; they want to work with Lancaster; amazed at how much is developed because of this particular conference.
